WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell said Thursday all government fact-finding facilities are well under way on an exhaustive study for President Eisenhower of steel strike issues.

Mitchell said in a statement that the project under his direction will be "broad and complete — it will enable the President to have all the facts."

Labor Department sources said periodic reports are being sent to the White House as fast as they are completed. Some may be made public.

Mitchell assumed the role last week of the government's chief fact-finder in the steel stoppage—now in its ninth day.

Before issuing his statement, the labor secretary conferred for two hours with Joseph P. Finnegan, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service who has been meeting separately with industry and Steelworkers Union representatives in New York.

The bargaining sessions are in recess until Monday.

Steelworkers Count Nearly $100 Million In Lost Wages As Strike Passes Ninth Day

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Striking Steelworkers counted up nearly 100 million dollars in lost wages Thursday—the ninth day of the crippling nationwide walkout.

Every day the strike continues, they lose 10 million dollars in wages. Production losses amount to nearly 43 million dollars a day and is cutting deeper into allied fields.

Small Town Girl Named Miss USA

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The United States entry in the Miss Universe contest is a tall, lithe brunette from California's northern mountains whose ambition is to be a choreographer.

But pretty Terry Lynn Huntington's first thought was winning the Miss U.S.A. title Wednesday night was for the folks in the small town she calls home.

"I just wondered," she said, "what the people in Mt. Shasta would think—2,000 people—the warmest and closest people."

Terry is 19, 5 feet 6½ and green-eyed, with measurements of 36-23-36. She just finished her freshman year at the University of California at Los Angeles.

Her next hurdle is Thursday night's elimination round. She competes with 32 foreign beauties and Miss Hawaii. The 15 selected go into Friday night's finals.

Terry, despite her background, has the grace, poise and tawny look of a high fashion model. This could be because she has taken ballet lessons since the age of 4.

Up until 2 a.m. Thursday, she greeted the press at 8 a.m. looking fresh and lovely. She breakfasted on cottage cheese and ham — "high protein" — then started collecting her prizes. They include a $500 wardrobe, and her first fitting was for the white bouffant gown she'll wear to the coronation ball Saturday.

Does she feel like Cinderella? "No, just like me."

U. S. Jet Sets Record To Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — An American jet with 73 passengers set an 8-hour, 53-minute record Thursday for a nonstop New York-Moscow flight.

That shaved 55 minutes off the mark set 10 days ago by the Soviet TU114 turbo jet which brought Soviet Deputy Premier Frol R. Kozlov home.

New Version

The record-setting plane is a new version of the Boeing 707, called 707-321. It is operated by Pan American World Airways.

Aboard were reporters and government aides coming to Moscow for Vice President Richard M. Nixon's visit. Nixon's plane took 10 hours, 54 minutes, with time out for refueling in Iceland.

Atomic Plane Test Delayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department said Thursday it has decided to defer the start of a flight test program for an atomic-powered airplane.

The disclosure was made by Dr. Herbert F. York, director of defense research and engineering, at a hearing by a Senate House Atomic Energy subcommittee.

House Raps Program Of Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The embattled foreign aid program was pictured in a House committee report Thursday as shot through with waste and mismanagement due to "loose, lax administration."

In a counter-report, a White House study committee said the economic aid programs "must be continued and better administered, not emasculated or abandoned."

The two reports were released as Congress sent to President Eisenhower a compromise bill authorizing $3,556,200,000 in military-economic aid during the fiscal year ending next June 30 and turned to the question of appropriating funds to carry out this authority.

Critical Report

The critical report on waste and mismanagement came from a House Appropriations subcommittee which will get first crack at drafting the money bill. The subcommittee is headed by Rep. Otto Passman (D-La.), a long-time foe of large-scale aid.

Passman has talked of cutting this year's aid program another half billion dollars below the $3,556,200,000 authorized, which in itself is $353,200,000 less than Eisenhower said was needed.

The White House study committee, headed by William H. Draper, former ambassador to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and former assistant secretary of the Army, said many forms of economic aid must continue as long as the Communist military, economic and political menace exists.

It proposed that a new government agency be created outside the State Department to administer the major economic assistance program. The trouble now, it said, is that these activities are scattered among a number of agencies.

The House subcommittee report was based on testimony taken at closed door sessions during May and June. Administration officials said the $3,556,200,000 request submitted by Eisenhower already had been cut by 800 million dollars from original estimates, and they called it the minimum needed to prevent disaster in the cold war.

West Refuses Red Berlin Terms

GENEVA (AP) — The Western powers told Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko Thursday they will never accept Soviet terms for a Berlin truce. They pressed him once again to get down to fruitful talk.

By this the West means negotiation of a stopgap Berlin settlement. Gromyko has been insisting a Berlin standstill must be tied in with reunification talks between the two Germans.

Gromyko said he was perfectly willing to talk about a Berlin truce but made no move to drop the tie-in with Pan-German conversations.

British Foreign Minister Selwyn Lloyd took the lead in seeking to bring the foreign ministers conference back to a discussion of a temporary Berlin settlement.

"I say," he told Gromyko, "that there is an interim agreement for Berlin sketched out for us. And I believe that it should be possible here or at some other meeting, perhaps at another level, to get final acceptance of this interim agreement."

Explaining that remark, a British spokesman said Lloyd meant the "final acceptance could come here or at the summit."

The British thus appeared to be opening the door to a meeting of heads of government. They were inviting Gromyko to enter. And they held out the bait that the West would agree on some kind of Pan-German talks.

"Our formula permits of any combination or permutation of the delegations here in this room today — including both Germans — to meet from time to time for purposes which could be defined precisely or left general," is the way Lloyd put it.

But if Gromyko had any ideas the British would buy his idea that German problems must be settled by a Pan-German committee, Lloyd said.

Clarifying Lloyd's statement, British officials said later he did not mean to say he thought there had been enough progress yet on a Berlin truce to justify a summit meeting. These officials added Lloyd felt the ministers still could negotiate a Berlin standstill here.

Deeds the British would buy his idea that German problems must be settled by a Pan-German committee, Lloyd said.

Khrushchev Lashes Out At Americans

MOSCOW (AP) — Richard M. Nixon came to Moscow Thursday declaring "we must learn to live together or we will die together." He ran head-on into an anti-American blast from Nikita Khrushchev, who said the U.S. vice president's trip was deliberately timed to coincide with a campaign against the Soviet Union.

Ignoring the officially chilly atmosphere, Nixon put his words of friendship into action by beaming and shaking hands at the airport with all the Soviet citizens he could reach.

At almost the same time, Khrushchev stood before a Polish friendship rally in Moscow's Sports Palace, 20 miles away, and announced a representative of the "panic stricken American imperialists" had arrived. He suggested Nixon come see a meeting of "enslaved peoples" he said the United States was talking of liberating.

The anti-Soviet campaign they have launched in the United States in time for Vice President Nixon's arrival in the U.S.S.R. will do them no good," Khrushchev declared.

Rice Named Democratic Chairman

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Democratic State Committee Thursday unanimously elected Commonwealth Secretary John S. Rice as chairman, succeeding Sen. Joseph M. Barr (D-Allegheny).

Barr is giving up the post in order to devote his full efforts to a campaign for the Pittsburgh mayoralty.

Mayor Robert W. Anthony of Altoona nominated Rice, praising him as "one of the party greats."

U.S. Rep. William Green, Philadelphia, termed Rice "an old wheelhorse of the Democratic party" in seconding the nomination.

Rice, who was elected to the State Senate in 1932 and served as both minority and majority leader in subsequent sessions, was the unsuccessful Democratic candidate for governor in 1946.

In accepting the post, Rice called for a "growing professionalization of political organizations."

"We must," he said, "avail ourselves of the new knowledge of how organizations can be made to function more effectively and how changes in attitudes come about. We must use the most modern tools and techniques of communications to reach the voter effectively."

Rice is from Gettysburg. He is an orchard grower and manufacturer in Adams County.

In stepping down from the post he had held since 1953, Barr leveled criticism at the Republican party as one of "timidity and obstruction."

Barr has indicated he will remain a state senator until the campaign for Pittsburgh mayor is decided.

(Among those attending the Harrisburg sessions were two Democratic leaders from Monroe County — State Committee member Forrest R. Smith and County Chairman John A. Brislin.)

Six Leaders Sentenced

HENDERSON, N.C. (AP) — A stern North Carolina judge Thursday sentenced three textile union leaders to prison terms of from six to 10 years as the ringleaders in a conspiracy to blow up vital installations at the struck Harriet-Henderson Cotton Mill.

The eight, including Carolinas TWUA Director Boyd E. Payton, were convicted by a Superior Court jury.

Payton, his aide Lawrence Gore and Charles Auslander, a minor union official, drew the stiffest sentences — six to 10 years at hard labor.

Four others—Warren Walker, 38; Robert Edward Abbott, 21; Calvin Ray Pegram, 22; and Johnny Martin, 57—drew five-year terms. The eighth defendant, 23-year-old Malcolm Jarrell, described by Judge Mallard as "the low man on the conspiracy," drew two to three years.

Government Against Bond For Highways

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Eisenhower Administration Thursday opposed issuance of special bonds to help finance the big interstate highway building program in the next few years.

Any such plan would create inflationary pressures and would interfere with sales of other long-term government securities, Asst. Secretary of the Treasury Laurence B. Robbins said.

He testified before the House Ways and Means Committee, which is holding hearings on President Eisenhower's request for a boost from three to four-and-a-half cents a gallon in the federal gasoline tax.

Congress has been reluctant to vote the increase, Eisenhower says it is needed to keep work going on the 41,000-mile interstate highway system, for which Washington pays 90 per cent of the costs.

Representatives of a number of highway-user groups, including spokesmen for the oil industry, have opposed a gas tax hike.

Chamber Working To Keep Crossing Open

MEMBERS of the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce met yesterday morning to discuss plans to prevent the closing of the railroad crossing on the Stokes Mill Road at Gravel Place.

Attending the meeting were M. F. Crowe, committee chairman; Arthur Schieble, Edwin Hughes and Frank Patterson.

Crowe informed the group that plans called for writing to the Public Utilities Commission to request a hearing pertaining to asking for a halt in the closing of the crossing. It is located on Legislative Route 45060, and is also Stroud Township road 670.

The group was told that Leon Schwartz, chairman of the PUC, North Office Building, Harrisburg, would be the person to whom interested persons should direct their appeals for the hearing.

Crowe told the group the Stroud Township Supervisors, Borough Councils of the two communities, and the County Commissioners should be informed of the move and would be asked to lend their support in opposing the move.

However, when the matter of the cost of installing a crossing gate was discussed, a figure as high as $75,000 was mentioned.

Those present were asked to contact the individual firms whose personnel might use the crossing, and therefore, would be most affected by its closing.

Other members of the committee are Clifford Cramer, Joseph Small, Horace G. Heller and LeRoy Mikels. The latter is president of the chamber.

Committee Approves Labor Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The fact-split House Labor Committee barely voted approval Thursday of a compromise labor controls bill. It now faces an all but friendly reception in the House.

The committee vote was 16-14. A tie vote would have locked the bill indefinitely in committee.

Many of the committee members who voted to send the bill to the House floor denounced it as weak and watery.

Several Republicans served notice they would oppose it on the floor unless its union regulation controls are strengthened. Some Democrats who said they also would oppose it, gave as a reason that the controls were too stringent.

Its friends, a minority in the committee, suggested that it "provides a path of reasonable compromise for reasonable men."

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, called the bill unacceptable to organized labor and one that "does grievous harm to legitimate unions under the guise of labor reform."

With seemingly no one wholly satisfied, the situation could result in no law at all this year.

The committee bill is a softened version of the antiracketeering bill passed earlier this session by the Senate.

The House committee relaxed the Senate's labor "bill of rights" for the union rank and file by eliminating its criminal enforcement sanctions. It retained Senate bans against "hot cargo" contracts in interstate transportation—hot cargoes are those a union refused to handle, and against organizational picketing of employers.

Alleged Stock Swindler Found In Rio De Janeiro

NEW YORK (AP) — Lowell M. Birrell, alleged multimillion-dollar stock swindler and manipulator, has been found in Rio de Janeiro after a worldwide search, the Manhattan district attorney said Thursday.

Birrell, 52, an attorney, and president of numerous companies, was charged two weeks ago in a 69-count indictment of engineering a 14-million-dollar fraud on stockholders in two companies.

Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan said Birrell didn't get all of the 14 million, "but he tried." He said Birrell enriched himself by about three million dollars by stock manipulation.

World Reports

Birrell disappeared in November 1957, after a warrant was issued for his arrest. He had been reported seen in half the capitals of the world.

Hogan said Birrell arrived in Rio this week, probably from Paris, and is using the name "Lowell McAfee."

The search for Birrell started July 7 when a grand jury returned the indictment.

Birrell is a former president of the Swan-Finch Oil Corp., a former board chairman of Doekin Products, Inc., and a former director of the Swan-Finch Gas Development Corp., a subsidiary of Swan-Finch Oil.

Missing Girl May Have Lost Memory

SHORT HILLS, N.J. (AP) — The doctor for missing socialite Jacqueline Gay Hart indicated Thursday that a recurrence of amnesia may have figured in her baffling disappearance.

The 21-year-old blonde beauty may have been stricken with the same loss of memory she suffered after an auto accident in Virginia two years ago.

Jacqueline was thrown from her car in Charlottesville, Va., May 12, 1957. She could remember nothing for several hours. She was in a hospital three days.

Dr. W. Austin Tansey, her doctor here, said she suffered a brain concussion. She made a complete recovery, he said but her family did not rule out the possibility of amnesia.

The girl's father, Ralph, a wealthy business executive, said she had not suffered a loss of memory since the accident.

The girl was last seen Tuesday night kissing her fiancé goodbye at Newark Airport, then vanished.

Search Airport

Police scoured the airport and the lonely marshes that surround it again Thursday. They found nothing.

"We are going over all the ground again," said Hart. Executive vice president of the Colgate-Palmolive Co. "We are trying everything but there is not a thing in the world new."

"I wish there was. I wish to God there was."

Somewhere between a landing ramp and the well-lit airport parklet her new hardtop Chevrolet, she disappeared.

She had driven her fiancé, Stanley Gaines, 25, of Fayetteville, W. Va., to the airport after dinner with her family in this fashionable suburb.

Gaines, whose late father amassed a fortune in coal mining in West Virginia, was going to Pittsburgh for a job interview. He and Jacqueline were to have been married next month.

Police were looking for four youths with duck-tailed haircuts Gaines said loitering about the airport terminal. Joseph Weidon, Newark police director, said "we would like to locate them very much for questioning" but he saw no reason to connect them with the case.

Green Places Tax Blame On GOP

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — U. S. Rep. William J. Green Jr. (D-Pa.) says Pennsylvania's Republican state legislators want to raise the sales tax from 3½ to 4 per cent "and then blame the Democrats."

He said that was why House Republicans offered to provide only seven or eight votes, enough to pass a 4 per cent tax. Green, the Philadelphia Democratic chairman said that if bills are necessary "why don't they give us 50 votes."

Philadelphia Democrats blocked passage of the 4 per cent bill.

Green helped write a substitute measure imposing new taxes on business. It was introduced in the Pennsylvania House by State Rep. James J. Dougherty (D-Phila.).

"If the Republicans want to put the tax on the little man, let them come out for it. These corporation taxes, which we will push, won't drive business out of the state. They can take it out of their income taxes and Uncle Sam will be the loser, not the little man."

Breakdown In Voting Continues

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — A seven-month breakdown of voter registration machinery continued in heavily Negro populated Macon county Thursday after three newly appointed white registrars declined to serve.

Gov. John Patterson released copies of letters from Howard Lynn of near Notasulga, J. H. Sadler and John Sullivan of Tuskegee. They gave as reason for declining to serve the pressure for Negro registration and federal intervention.

Pressure

Voter registration has suffered several breakdowns under pressure of Negroes seeking to become qualified voters. There are nearly six Negroes to every white in Macon county Whites have a 2 to 1 voting edge, however.

Once the county went 18 months without a board of registrars after William P. Mitchell filed a $5,000 damage suit in 1954 against two former members, charging they refused to register him because of his race.

THE ART of putting frames around pictures has come down to us through the centuries and probably no one knows just where or when the custom began, according to Walter Logan, head of the picture-framing department at A. B. Wyckoff Department Store.

However, he said, it is believed that the first frames were made in the general style of a window, or even a doorway. No doubt the idea came to an artist as he was admiring an excellent view through a window... or a beautiful woman in a doorway.

Edward G. Robinson, known for his fine perception of art as well as for his artistic role-playing in the movies, has said that "fine pictures are like old friends, and life would not be complete without them."

Logan agrees that our lives would be very dull, and much less enjoyable, without the beauties of nature and art.

Framing is a means of adding beauty and value to a picture. While it is true, the frame itself should not be more conspicuous than the picture, its role is rather to surround the painting as a window surrounds a beautiful view.

Maxmillian Rasko, contemporary master of that most painstaking medium, professional portraiture, declares that "When a painting has been completed, it must be properly framed; this is the most important part." Rasko recognizes the fact that the wrong frame would ruin even the best painting... but that the right frame complements the work of the artist.

PRUDENTIAL Insurance Co. announced yesterday that its payments to Pennsylvania policyholders and beneficiaries during the first six months of 1959 amounted to $79,193,000.

This compares with the $81,435,000 paid during the corresponding period in 1958 and includes all types of claim payments, dividends, annuities, and other insurance benefits.

Total Prudential payments in the United States and Canada for the first half were $654,486,000. For the same period last year, they were $667,503,000, a first-half record.

PROSAR REALTY CO., of Saylorsburg, acted as broker in the sale of the nine-hole Indian Mountain Golf Course at Kresgeville for $60,000.

Tax Map Reproduction Hits Snag

MONROE County's plan to have copies of its tax map reproduced by Allentown Blue Print Co. hit a snag yesterday because some of the original tracings are too light.

Because the company must make heavy impressions from its sepia set of the county's maps in order to bring out lines which are barely visible on the originals as made up by J. L. Jacobs and Co., Chicago appraisers, the copies became blurred and blotched, the commissioners were told.

The situation came to light when Chief County Tax Assessor George K. Brands refused to accept several copies as not being good enough for use. Besides too much coloring on certain parts of the copies, there were illegible numbers and letters.

The company said it could not make adequate copies until either the county's original maps here or the sepia set being kept in Allentown have been gone over to correct indistinct figures and darken hazy lines.

Commissioner W. Adolph Rake suggested the company sort out the sepia which are not good enough for the making of reproductions and then return them to the county for further instructions.

The company, because it did not run off a trial reproduction involving numbers and letters, took the blame for the unacceptable maps.

Sheriff Jacob Altomose turned over to the commissioners an approximately $100 damage estimate for the destruction caused by James Smith, 21, of Baltimore, Md., when he wrecked his jail cell a couple of weeks ago. The commissioners questioned whether the amount was large enough. County insurance will pay for the repairs.

International Art Show Presents Works From 14 Different Countries Of World

By David Ottaway
THE POTENTIAL of the Pocono Art Center as an exhibition center is already in evidence. On display at the Indian Queen Hotel, until August 10, is an International Art Show featuring paintings from 14 different countries.

Its intent is to contrast points of view in painting in countries throughout the world during the last 50 years.

A small, selective show in outlay, the paintings have been taken from the Belgian and Israeli governments, the World Galleries and the Martha Jackson Gallery, in New York City, five private collections and in some cases the artists themselves.

For the Art Center it is the first in a long line of such exhibitions that it hopes to have in the future. For the community it is a wonderful chance to become acquainted with various forms of contemporary art done by some of the leading artists in the world.

Realism, surrealism, abstract and primitive paintings are contained in the exhibition. An attempt has been made to show what is representative of the 20th century in each category.

Lent by the Belgian government is a painting by Muenzo Kibwanga, a Belgian Congo, untrained artist who paints with the stubs of sticks and brushes as well as with his fingers. With African painting is connected with their religion, and artistic expression relies on tradition and religious inspiration.

The observer will note the lack of perspective in Kibwanga's painting, a state common to all primitive schools.

'Ghostly Shadows' Appear In Sky Over Mt. Pocono

"GHOST SHADOWS" and strange eerie lights were reported seen in the skies over Mount Pocono last night. Mrs. Shirley Mills, a resident in the area, said that about 9:20 p.m. her four children came running into the house exclaiming that ghosts were flying about in the sky.

Mrs. Miller went to investigate and explained the phenomena this way: "Shadows came out, a soft light, and then grew bigger and brighter and finally disappeared."

She explained that they had no particular form or shape and that these "shadows" would fly about circling in the air.

When asked what she thought they might be, Mrs. Miller stated that they looked somewhat like flying saucers, but that she could not see that they had any definite form.

(Editor's Note—Earlier this week it was found that a spotlight at the Bremen's carnival in Tannersville had been causing "ghostly shadows" in the sky.)

Topic Set For Conference

"THE PAINTERS' point of View" will be presented as the current "Conversation" topic at the Pocono Art Center tomorrow at 8 p.m.

In connection with the current International Art Show at the Art Center, a group of painters, including the well known sculptor and painter Alfred Van Loen, will discuss their reactions to paintings selected from the exhibition.

Other artists represented in the show include two Cubans, Amelia Palaez and Mario Carreno, a Haitian Alik Roie and a Spaniard, Jorge Sanchez.

The International Art Show is an opportunity seldom come upon in a community this size. A comment from an out-of-town visitor perhaps expresses what this show and others like it in the future may well do for the Stroudsburg. "This is going to put Stroudsburg on the art map!"

Pumping At Mines To End Today

WILKES-BARRE (AP) — State pumping operations in the area around the scene of the Knox Coal mine disaster will be halted today. State Mines Secretary Joseph T. Kennedy in telegrams to 13 coal firms said state appropriations for the pumping operations specified the money was to be spent for disaster relief.

The telegrams, received Wednesday, said the department feels it can no longer use the funds. It explained that concrete seals have minimized the danger of further, sudden onrushes of water into area mines.

The mines were flooded Jan. 22 when the Susquehanna River broke through into the Knox Coal Co. workings at Port Griffith, entombing 12 miners.

There was some question whether individual mine companies would be able to continue the mammoth pumping operations on their own.

The Wilkes-Barre Times-Leader estimated the cost to the Pennsylvania Coal Co. alone would be about $100,000 a year. It raised a question of whether Pennsylvania Coal and other firms were financially able to handle pumping on their own and said the area faced a possibility of increased unemployment in the mines.

Two Gunmen Stage $27,000 Bank Holdup

PITTSBURGH, (AP)—Two bold gunmen grabbed $27,000 in a daring holdup of a suburban bank Thursday and wounded two police officers in a fierce gun battle.

One bandit was shot. The other surrendered meekly. A third was believed to have escaped. Both police officers were reported in serious condition.

Four other policemen collapsed of heat exhaustion in the chase over a wooded, hilly area about five miles from midtown. They were treated at the scene.

Police identified the bandits as Joseph Gaito, 29, and Eddie Kern, 50, an ex-convict, both of Pittsburgh. Gaito was shot in the hip in the exchange of fire with police.

The wounded policemen are Anthony Paga, 30, and Robert W. Thompson, 26, both of Pittsburgh. Paga was shot in the back, Thompson in the abdomen.

Flee In Car
The two bandits fled in a car after robbing the Hays branch of the Peoples First National Bank and Trust Co., scene of a $40,000 holdup in January, 1957.

Minutes after the holdup, police spotted the getaway car and gave chase. The bandits abandoned the auto and took to the hills under the cover of deep brush.

Hundreds of police quickly converged on the scene with riot guns, walkie-talkies, dogs and tear gas. Two helicopters were pressed into service to direct the manhunt from the air.

The officers crouched behind cars and cement abutments, peppering the hillside with shots. The gunmen fired down from their vantage point on the hillside, keeping officers at bay for more than a half hour.

The money in a green canvas bag was found beneath a log planted in the dirt. Next to it was a cocked revolver.

Gaito, shot in the hip, walked out of the wooded area with his hands in surrender — shouting "don't shoot, don't shoot—I'm hit." Kern gave up eight minutes later.

Gaito was taken to a hospital where he told officers that a third man had driven the getaway car. He said it was stolen. Gaito identified the man as Robert Boyd.

Honesdale Man Wounded At Neteong

NETEONG, N. J. (AP)—Jesse Harrison, 43, of 121 Cliff St., Honesdale, Pa., was in fair condition at Dover General Hospital, Dover, Thursday night with a mysterious bullet wound on his cheek and another atop his head.

Harrison walked into state police headquarters earlier and told police he didn't know who fired at him or where the shooting occurred.

Police said he still hadn't been able to furnish further details. State police said Harrison, a truck driver, drove to the station himself.

Heavy Rain In Luzerne Area

FREELAND (AP)—A three-hour rainstorm drenched this Luzerne County community Thursday, pouring down 4.33 inches while nearby towns had less than an inch.

Only .07 of an inch of rain fell in Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg yesterday according to The Daily Record rain gauge.

Hazleton
U. S. Weather Observer A. B. Evansha of Freeland, who reported the storm, said that in Hazleton, three miles to the southeast, only .22 inches of rain fell. Electric power service was interrupted briefly by lightning which struck a utility pole.

In Hazleton, nine miles to the east, the rainfall was measured at .98 inches.

Numerous basements in the Freeland-Jeddo area were flooded and the water rose as high as two feet on some area highways.

County Vote Favors Wheat Program

MONROE COUNTY wheat farmers voted four to two yesterday in favor of a feed wheat program for 1960. There were no challenge ballots.

Under the feed wheat program, farmers may arrange with the county office to grow up to 30 acres of wheat for use only on the farm where grown without being subject to marketing quota penalties.

If the quotas are not approved by at least two thirds of the growers voting, the quotas and penalties will not be in effect and price support will be available to farmers who comply with their farm wheat allotments at 50 per cent of parity as directed by law. At current parity levels, that would be about $1.18 per bushel.

Out of the 20 to 25 eligible voters only six did so.

Somewhat ironically the nation's headlines the same day read "Employment at All Time High" and "Steel Strike Begins."

Obviously, the half million steel workers who walked off their jobs reduced actual employment well below the record peak that was reported on that day.

It is axiomatic that the general public gives little thought to economic conditions while they are good, but discusses them endlessly when they are bad.

The two headlines explain why the public is not yet concerned with the implications behind a steel strike, for jobs are plentiful, the pay good, working conditions steadily improving, and it's Summer vacation season, anyway.

There is about a three-month supply of steel in the hands of users. This is not spread out uniformly, however, and some industries will have to shut down long before that time, should the strike continue.

In the event that the strike should run as long as a month, there will be much more evidence of public concern, for layoffs will commence in many steel-using plants.

A strong economy is one of America's best deterrents to war. It is also the best assurance of political, as well as economic stability. No one wins in a strike, neither management, nor labor, nor the general public.

Both management and labor should demonstrate a higher sense of public responsibility and practical statesmanship than they have shown in the long months of negotiation. Surely, difference can be compromised quickly as well as at some indefinite future time.

'Ugly Russians' Also Can Goof

"I hate the regime that is presently ruling the Soviet Union. The Soviet government uses terror, subversion and police state methods to achieve its aims. I believe that Communism is evil because it deprives individual man of his pride and self-respect. Communism reduces man to subhuman level, where he is a slave of the party and its ruling masters."

That's Alexander Urevitch Kazanachiev talking. Until a couple of weeks ago he was information officer in the Soviet Embassy in Rangoon, Burma. The 27-year-old Russian sought and got asylum in the American Embassy.

Reverse shades of "The Ugly American!" In that recent best-seller, the American diplomats of a mythical country much like Burma-Sarkhan — made all the mistakes and reaped all the unfavorable local reaction. The Russians were depicted as cool, capable diplomats who capitalized on American weaknesses.

"The Ugly American" was good for the Foreign Service of the United States. It pointed up our mistakes overseas and jolted awake the officials of the State Department and U.S. Information Service.

A similar book about the Russian foreign service couldn't be published in the Soviet Union. Persons like Kazanachiev have no way to protest except to flee to the West.

In his own way, the young diplomat has written a kind of "Ugly Russian." And it's a safe bet that his protest is causing far more consternation in Moscow than "The Ugly American" did in Washington.—Harrisburg Patriot.

The Pennsylvania Story

Quoting Andrews

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg—Lawmakers returning to Capitol Hill following last week's tax debacle when Philadelphia Democratic delegation House members "walked out" on Administration legislative leaders and in effect torpedoed the compromise four per cent tax program, "heard the word" this week from Republican W. Stuart Helm, caucus chairman of the GOP House minority bloc.

To many House members what Representative Helm had to say rang a bell—and produced red ears on the Democratic side of the House.

Said GOP Minority Spokesman Helm:

"You have got to endeavor to find a tax program that will have 105 votes in the body of this House. From the minority point of view, we are not going to pull your chestnuts out of the fire."

"We are not going to come galloping to the front to salvage your tax programs, only to have some of your own members walk out."

"It is our business to cooperate, but it is not our business to initiate. We cannot stand here forever saying nothing in answer to concrete proposals, but we can stand here forever saying nothing to nothing."

Reason for red ears among Democratic lawmakers on the majority side: GOP Minority Lawmaker Helm was not using his own words—but was quoting from the Legislative Journal of the 1953 legislative session when Democrats were the minority bloc and Republicans were faced with a thorny tax dilemma similar to the present.

Author of the speech in 1953: The then Democratic Minority leader—and present Speaker of the House—Hiram G. Andrews! ... The shoe then was on the other foot.

Front Office Stumble—Fortnight ago press agency on Capitol Hill slipped a disc. ... From the Governor's Office came a "news release" (mimeographed hand-out) to Capitol Hill newsmen proclaiming in the lead paragraph:

"Gov. David L. Lawrence today announced the approval of more than $2 million in federal grants for sewage treatment works in ten Pennsylvania municipalities."

NB to Governor Lawrence and press aides:

(1) How can the Governor approve the federal grants when Congress at the time had not yet passed its appropriation bill covering sewage grants to the various states—and for that matter, still has not approved the federal allocation?

(2) What actually happened? The State Sanitary Water Board, a subsidiary agency of the State Department of Health, routinely forwarded to U. S. Public Health Service in Washington, its recommendations—on a priority basis—for project approvals by USPHS, of and when federal funds are made available to Congress.

(3) Routinely in the past such announcements—when made—have been made by the subsidiary agency involved, in this case the Sanitary Water Board.

From a politically strategic standpoint, of course, the more the Governor's name appears in print the better—within reason.

Perhaps the Governor will soon inaugurate the practice of announcing highway detours—a weekly chore now carried on by the Department of Highways.

Up Periscope!—Things seemingly have come to a fine pass—or moo—when the state starts supplying drinking cups for its dairy dairy herds. ... On the State Auditor General's Daily Register one day this week was this payment-for-approval item submitted by the Department of Public Welfare: "Dairy Barn Drinking Cups—$526.75."

George Sokolsky Says...

Rovere Vs. McCarthy

Richard H. Rovere's book on Joe McCarthy was a disappointment to me because it contained nothing that had not already appeared in the gargantuan newspaper coverage of the late Senator from Wisconsin.

As Rovere notes, Joe McCarthy did not organize a movement. He made no attempt to build a following. He did not establish a central office for the development of such a following. He remained regular in his party.

Actually, Joe McCarthy sent out fewer mimeographs than most senators do. Rovere had an opportunity to do a thorough study of the man and the phenomenon of McCarthyism but hated for both blinded him.

Yet, as a determinist, it should have occurred to him that no manifestation in public affairs occurs unless there is, in the public mind, either a pressing need or a compulsive desire for it.

Rovere mentions me in his book and I am able to judge his journalistic accuracy by the episode:

"A guest in the hotel read (Schine's) pamphlet, was struck by its insights, sought out its author, introduced him to McCarthy, who hired him. At any rate, somehow or other it happened—he was hired, and as the whole Western world was soon to know, Cohn and Schine became great companions."

The record, as given here, is untrue. I did not introduce David Schine to Roy Cohn, because Roy Cohn introduced David Schine to me. And to correct another of Rovere's errors, I introduced Roy Cohn to McCarthy, although several others suggested that he get Cohn as his counsel.

These are small matters, but a careful author would have checked his details with either Roy Cohn or with me. He checked with neither of us.

When Joe McCarthy appeared on the scene, there was already a rising tide of anti-Communism. The Communists were riding high. Many were in government, in educational institutions, in the press, in industry and particularly in the amusement arts.

Most of them were products of the unpleasant 1930's and had attempted to explain their personal experiences by a philosophy which they did not understand.

A few were hard core Marxists, prepared to do anything, to commit any crime for the world revolution.

Groups of anti-Communists of various shades organized themselves into irresponsible, leaderless committees and groups who centered their activities about the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

Some of the socialistic anti-Communists disliked the House Committee on Un-American Activities. In Hollywood, those who called themselves Communists, progressives or liberals boycotted active anti-Communists who were unable to find work.

There were many rumors of espionage and the Rosenbergs and Alger Hiss cases were already known.

Joe McCarthy did not just appear. Anti-Communist groups were in touch with several senators who failed to understand Marxism and its manifestations in the United States.

Dr. J. B. Matthews, who had been a fellow-traveler, had served the Communist movement adequately, a man of great learning and competent communication, probably exerted the greatest influence on Senator McCarthy.

Matthew's anti-Communism is as much personal as theoretical. Most of the leaders in the American movement had been his friends; he turned on them and devotes all his days to fighting them and their doctrine.

Had Rovere prepared his material, had he given himself to an analysis of the times and the influences surrounding McCarthy, he would have discovered that McCarthy was a colorful incident in an unorganized, spontaneous movement among Americans against Communism and Communists.

Again, Rovere's hatred for McCarthy blinds him. He makes the man appear as little more than a drunken bumpkin who scares the great in Washington by the noise he makes.

Politicians are not scared by a drunk who means nothing and has no real substance. Nor can a man accomplish so much, good or evil as you choose, who is nothing more than a gay, devil-may-care alcoholic. It cannot be done.

Joe McCarthy was a serious-minded politician who, once he understood the nature of the Communist conspiracy, undertook the heart-breaking, unpopular task of fighting it. The fight killed him. The disappointments and betrayals killed him. There is much to love of those days which Rovere does not tell in his book.

Make what you want of it Dept.: Why is it that some Harlem (and other) so-called "leaders" who are so quick to cry about "police brutality" soft-peddle talk about the organizations known as "Muslims" and "Black Nationalists" who gather nightly at 125th & Seventh to spew racial hatred and incite riots. They are the real cause of trouble in the area. (FBI and police undercover squads have the dossiers. ... I heard one of the agitators (over a loudspeaker) assert: "While others talked I fought for the colored man in Morocco. I fought with the Mau Maus in Kenya. Now the time has come for guns here.") Several uniformed policemen standing by were helpless to intervene. ... One out of every ten persons in the U. S. This huge "minority" of millions of potential "cop-haters" is the reason why so many irresponsible politicians jump on the "police brutality" bandwagon—for votes. In yesterday's edition of The Daily Record you undoubtedly read about the DL&W's latest request. It involves changing a train that runs from Hoboken to Binghamton five days a week.

If the DL&W request is granted, the train will be cut off at Scranton each day. The company maintains that this will save a total of $29,500. The train stops at East Stroudsburg daily.

As we pointed out the other day, this is only the beginning of a pattern that will someday have East Stroudsburg dropped from the railroad train picture, as has been the case at neighboring Delaware Water Gap and Mount Pocono.

The delay of four months gives the people of the Pocono Mountains a golden opportunity to make their voice heard in an effort to retain these trains. It is now or never for organizations in this area to act.

It is time for action by the Chamber of Commerce, Vacation Bureau, the four borough councils, industrial organizations, business and every other group interested in furthering the cause of the Pocono Mountains.

A barrage of messages protesting action by the DL&W could bring results. It did in the case of Hazleton and the Lehigh Valley Railroad.

The Lehigh Valley Railroad had requested permission to do away with all of its passenger trains in the Hazleton-Lehigh Valley area.

But, the Pennsylvania Utility Commission ruled on Wednesday of this week that a round-trip passenger train between Hazleton and Lehigh Valley must be retained for a one-year trial.

The Interstate Commerce Commission had given the Lehigh Valley Railroad permission to drop six of its 10 main line trains. The railroad then sought to end all service.

All sides credited the many and strong protests leveled as the reason for placing the one Lehigh Valley train on a trial basis. ... Protests came from Hazleton and its chamber of commerce, Jenkins Township-Yatesville borough school district and a group of area residents.

The PUC noted that Hazleton area organizations are attempting to attract new industry because of the "severely depressed" coal region economy and so restored one passenger train to operation.

We are a resort area, we are attracting new industry to the locality and our economy is based a great deal on the DL&W Railroad.

We must protest the curtailment of two important trains and we must protest loud and long. The protests must be made immediately. Oppose the move today—not tomorrow.

Jim Riley Says: Protests Carry Weight With PUC

It has never been our policy to say, "there, I told you so." But the plan of reducing trains by railroads in this area is following along just the lines we spoke about the other day.

The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad, currently in the midst of dropping a morning and afternoon train of the schedule, has also made request to shorten the run of still a third train.

Both the morning and afternoon train requests have been postponed by the Interstate Commerce Commission for four months. Both trains stop at the station in East Stroudsburg and both are limousine to the economy of Monroe County.

Children's Theater Group Visits Pocono Playhouse

FORTY potential actors of Stroudsburg's Children's Theater held their weekly Creative Dramatics Workshop meeting on location at the Pocono Playhouse yesterday.

Forty spirited voices gleefully aided the count down as they responded to the invitation to help blast the witch off of the moon.

"Beauty! all you have to do is kick him!" was the instruction yelled by would-be director Kim Haddon when the heroine was struggling in the clutches of the villain.

From the audience they studied the technique of the players then left the world of fantasy to go back stage and see how the magic of theater is created.

The entire group was given a demonstration of the mechanics of the production by the stage manager. On the spot explanations were given by the cast when they were interviewed by the aspiring thespians.

After a satisfying and ambitious provoking study the group adjourned with an understanding nod toward eight-year-old Wendy Wells, a visitor to the class who wearily remarked, "I wish I was a member of Children's Theater."

Just a short time ago, he walked into his dealer's showroom—with his heart and his hopes high—to see if the time had come for his first Cadillac.

Well—his fondest hopes were realized—and here he is today with the car of his dreams.

What were the facts about Cadillac that made this happy and memorable moment possible?

First of all, the cost of a new Cadillac is remarkably modest—so much so, in fact, that many models are priced competitively with other cars of American manufacture.

And because Cadillac's initial price includes so many basic features that cost extra with other makes—Cadillac is actually the price rival of cars of far less stature.

There is also Cadillac's extraordinary economy of ownership. The car is amazingly frugal with gasoline and truly marvelous in its dependability.

And then there is the way a Cadillac protects its owner's investment. For such is the demand for Cadillac that the car returns an exceptionally high percentage of its original cost at the time of resale.

Those are the facts—and the conclusion, we feel, is obvious: if you are considering any motor car—even in the medium price field—you owe yourself a visit to your Cadillac dealer's showroom before you make your decision.

He'll be waiting for you—with the most surprising economy story of the year!

Bushkill Playhouse

Show Presents Point Of View

By David Ottaway

CURRENTLY being staged at the Bushkill Playhouse is the first semi-serious, thought-provoking play of the season, "Waltz of the Toreadors."

On the surface it is a French sex farce, but there is incalculable into it a point of view towards life as its Jean Anouilh must have experienced at some time.

It is concerned with a search for love and happiness on the part of General St. Pe in a world he has found boring and fruitless because of an abortive marriage.

Everything about the General's family is cold and barren. Two ugly children and a jealous, falsely sick wife are but stones around the General's neck. If anything is characteristic of family relations it is general lack of love.

To escape the situation, the General turns to his memories of his youth, romances and military life. In short, he is the picture of a physically and spiritually dying man grasping after the few sparks of life he has had in the past and can get in the present.

Herein lies the comedy, oddly enough, for the General turns to the maids and waitresses of his home and finally to an age-old virgin and past love Mademoiselle De Ste-Euverte. While she has saved herself for him, he has given himself to satisfaction with the hussies of his household.

The play is built on a series of calculated comical scenes. A latherly talk about the facts and ways of life between the General and his chaste secretary Gaston. Awkward love scenes between Gaston and the two daughters and Gaston and the delirious Mlle. De Ste-Euverte. Attempted duels between the General and Dr. Bonfant and then the General and Gaston.

Behind the apparent comedy, like a sugar coated pill, lies the tragedy of people without love, without life. Often one is not sure whether to laugh at the General or cry with pity for him.

As the General's love affairs are exposed and broken, he is slowly reduced to isolation and loneliness and left alone with his soul from whence comes his conflict with life.

The acting does not do justice to the play. I don't believe they were adequately prepared for this production. The comical scenes were effective but the moment of dramatic conflict and of deeply felt emotion were forced and unnatural. The second act bedroom scene between the General and his wife, tragic in content, was unconvincing.

'The Daily Investor'

Be Careful Of Purchases

By William A. Doyle
International Investment Analyst

Q. I have often read warnings against trying to "buy at the bottom and sell at the top." I have seen Bernard Baruch quoted as saying this can "only be accomplished by liars." Can you please explain exactly what "buy at the bottom and sell at the top" means?

A. Gee, that's plain enough language. It means buying securities at the lowest possible price and selling them at the highest possible price.

price and selling them at the highest possible price. XYZ common stock has sold through the years at prices ranging from 20 to 40 and is now quoted at 30, to have bought at the low and sold at the

125 Attend Joint Outing Of Clubs

APPROXIMATELY 125 persons attended a joint outing of Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs at Shawnee Inn Wednesday. An inter-club golf contest was one easily by the Rotary team, 11 to 1.

Winning Team
Members of the winning team were Weldon Cramer, Elmer Rinehart, John Bachman, Jesse Pierson, Joseph Snell, Theodore Hoffman, Jesse Haynes and J. L. Cohen.
Representing Kiwanis were John Watt, E. L. Williams, Dr. Clarence Dupee, Daniel G. Warner, Walter McClellan, Robert Schell, M. S. Baldwin and D. A. Hansen.

War Against Wild Animals

TOKYO (AP)—Armed peasants in the people's militia of Red China are conducting an organized campaign to exterminate wild beasts.
The New China News Agency reported they have killed or captured 1,500 wild boars, leopards and tigers in the last 12 months in the mountains of Pucheng, Jukian province.

Herd Reindeer
HELICOPTERS are used to herd reindeer in Sweden.

high you would have bought it at $2.00 a share and sold it at $4.00 a share.

Buying at the low and selling at the high can also refer to "catching the full swing" in a security. Let's suppose XYZ (at $30 a share) is at the lowest price it has hit in a long time. You buy it. It goes to $50 a share and you sell. It then starts to drop in price. You have bought at the low and sold at the high of that price move.

But Mr. Baruch's crack that this is done only "by liars" shows how astute the elder statesman is. Even the best professional traders can't expect to accomplish that feat. They'll settle (cheerfully) for just a part of any price movement. Remember that there quite often is only one transaction at the low and one at the high.

The 1959 production of "The Financial Folies" (a griddle show put on by New York Financial Writers Association) had "brokers" singing this parody on the subject: Oh, we'll sell you a stock that you'll never forget.

A share of frustration, a piece of regret.

So, send us your money and kiss it goodbye.
You'll get your return in the sweet by-and-by.

Buy low. Sell high. You'll get your return in the sweet by-and-by.

Q. In 1956, upon the recommendation of my broker, who guaranteed me against loss, I purchased 100 shares of Copper Range at $57.75 a share. At the broker's suggestion, I foolishly held the shares. I wanted to sell when it was trading at over $50 a share. But he urged me not to. It is now quoted at less than half the price I paid for it.

Would you recommend that I sell now and take my loss or continue to hold? Or should I buy more to lower my average cost price? Needless to say, my broker will not honor his guarantee and I am stuck?

A. Brokers are prohibited from guaranteeing their clients against losses. If you can prove that your broker promised you a guarantee, you can get him in hot water up to his ears.

More likely, though, what you are stuck for is a new patsy to blame your next mistake on. You sound typical of the breed that takes credit for every right move you make in the market and blames your broker or someone else for everything that goes wrong.

No matter what advice appeared in this column, the chances are that you would try to nail me to the wall for steering you wrong. Copper Range was rated as a speculation when you bought it and still is. The same thing can be said for the stocks of almost all copper companies.

That's as far as I'll go. You'll have to figure your own way out of this one. And, for a change, accept the responsibility for whatever decision you make.

Doyle will answer only representative letters of general interest in his column. He cannot answer phone queries.

A SPOTLESS SPOT

Square-sterned dhows anchor in harbor. Many arrive during monsoon season.

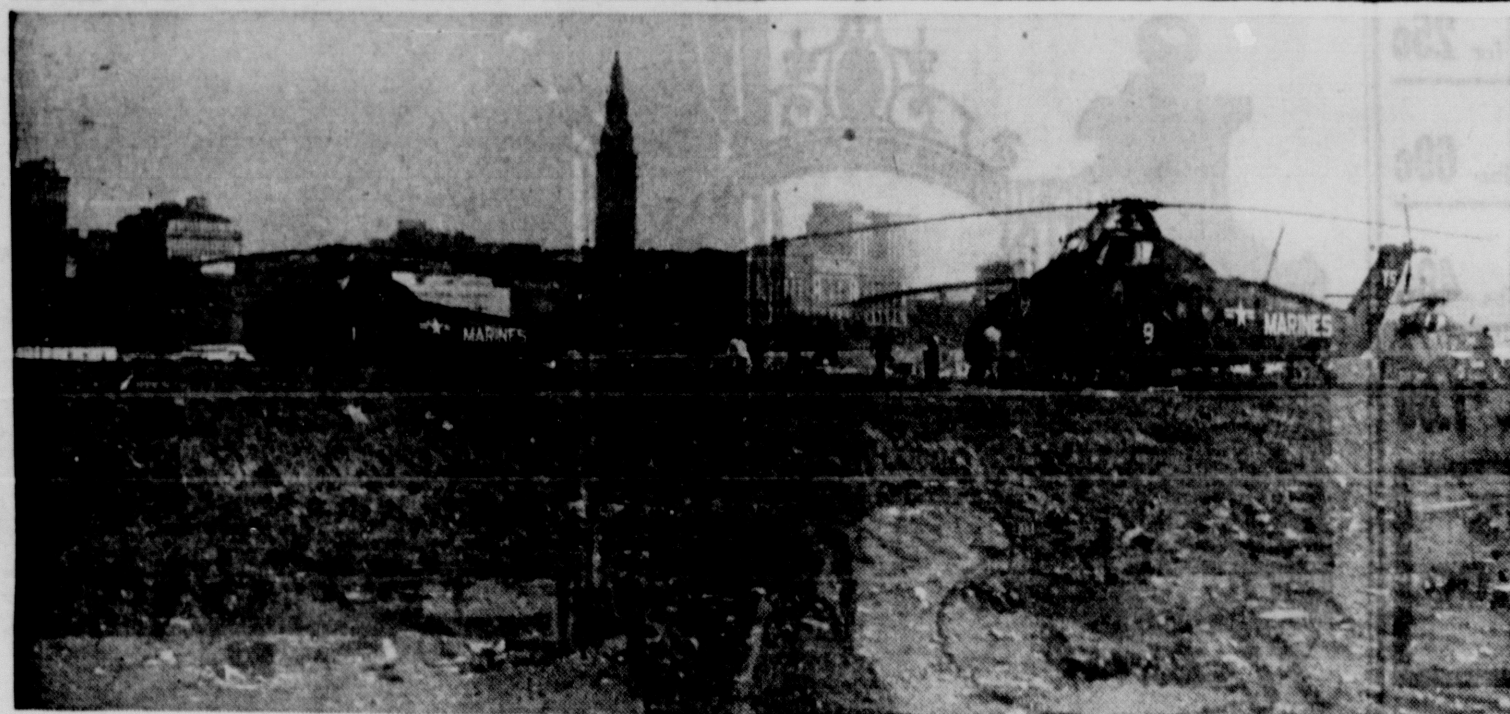

This is one of the typical streets in the city of Zanzibar.

ALMOST EVERY VISITOR to the sun-kissed island of Zanzibar is struck by the exceptionally clean streets of the capital city of Zanzibar. Although the city's market place is cluttered with shops, it still maintains a freshly-scrubbed look. The economy depends on cloves, copra, fishing and agriculture. The 640-square mile island has a population of approximately 150 thousand residents.

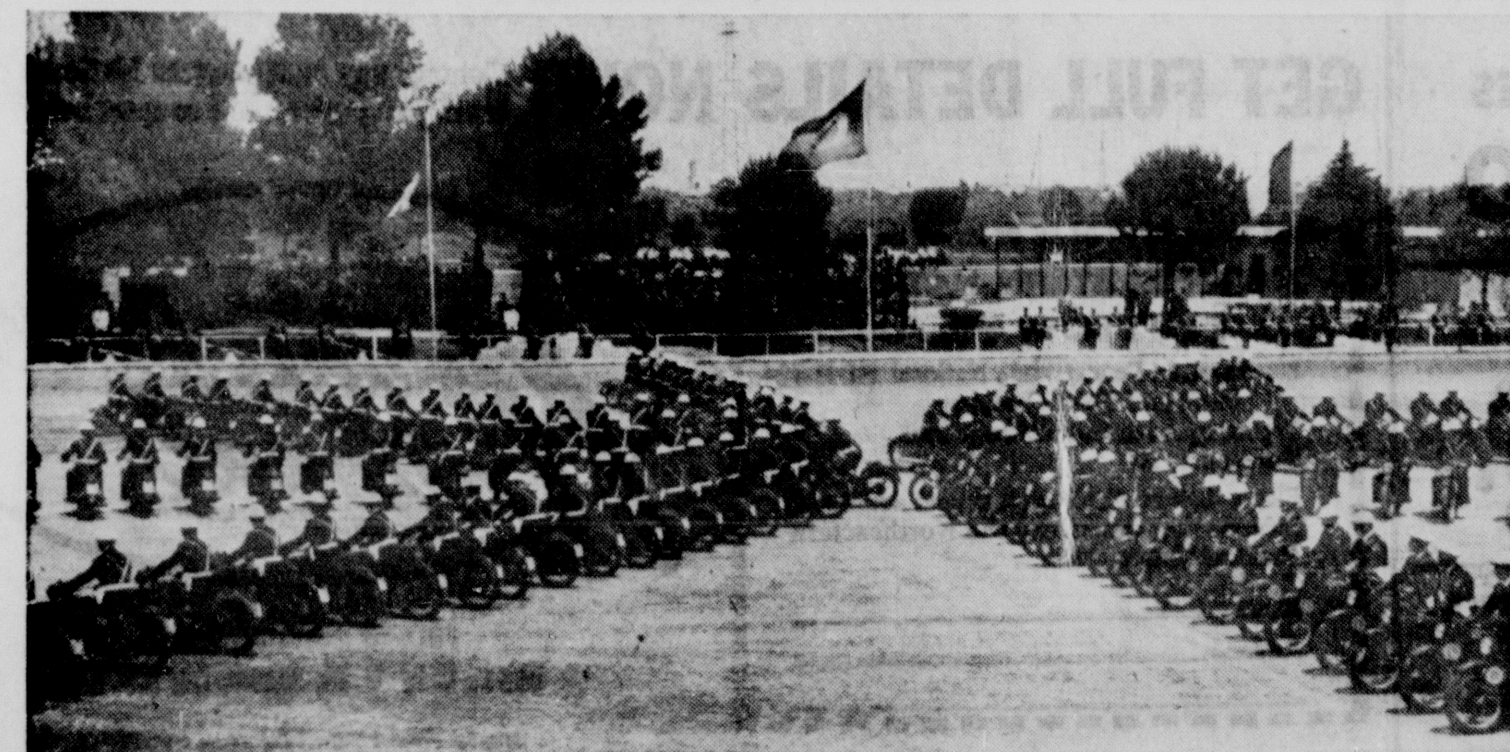

Samples of handmade pottery are laid out for sale in older section of the city.

SITUATION'S WELL IN HAND—Helicopters of the United States Marines whirl into Burke Lakefront airport in Cleveland in preparation for an attack on the city along with some 14 ships, jet planes and 7,500 sailors and fellow Marines. The attack—Operation Inland Seas—is a tribute to opening of St. Lawrence Seaway.

EVEN SARDINES WOULD FEEL CROWDED—It seems to be more a matter of trying to get breathing space rather than swimming space as some 35 thousand persons swarmed into the largest open air bath in Vienna.

MACHINE-LIKE PRECISION—Rome's motorcycle policemen show what they do when not chasing speeders.

FLAGSHIP AFLOAT—As spectators line the shore to see her, the liner Rotterdam cruises past in a shakedown cruise at Rotterdam, in The Netherlands. The giant vessel is the new flagship of the Holland-America line.

WATER WHIZ—Apparently heading into orbit, water skier Penny Baker soars through the air with the greatest of ease at Cypress Gardens, Fla. Baker's practicing a few stunts for national water skiing championships.

Ross Common Playhouse

'Reluctant Debutante'
Praised At Theater

By Harlan Stone
If Jane Austin had lived in London during the 1950s instead of down in the country around 1800, and if she had had a farcical bent, she might have written the play at Ross Common Playhouse this week. It is "Reluctant Debutante" by William Douglas Home.

For Home's plot evolves around the breakfast room machinations of a mother determined that her country daughter make good at her London debut. The mother is very like Mrs. Bennet in "Pride and Prejudice" trying to keep her daughter safely under wraps until the right suitor turns up.

The notorious suitor David Hoylake - Johnston shares with Darcy in Jane Austin's novel the problem of having to overcome a bad and undesired reputation.

Twice, however, the seriousness over such matters as the proper way to dance and how to keep a polite conversation going gives way to outright farce.

The Ross Common Players brought off both moments equally well, the first when the parents of the reluctant debutant hide in the kitchen to overhear their daughter with the unsuitable suitor, the second when the father makes a show of kicking out the suitor for the sake of his wife.

Guest star Joan Evans had the hardest part. As the mother she was superb with her characterization of a woman obsessed with making good on the social circuit. In the first act she delivered what amounted to almost a monologue for 20 minutes, so completely did her lines dominate the script.

Given the small scope of the play's subject, that same world of Jane Austin's in which a dance takes on the significance of war and murder in other stories, Miss Evans succeeds in making it all seem important and convincing. She never looks down on her part, but lives it.

Director Louis Wilson Ingram Jr., as the father who is stuck with paying for a debut at the rate of five pounds a minute is long-suffering and sympathetic.

As a worldly elab man he is able to take his wife's fears for their daughter with a more detached view. His scenes with Pat Gibson as the debutante near the end when he helps her get the disreputable suitor or are a delight.

Miss Gibson is a pleasure to watch as a somewhat socially backwards girl who, nevertheless, knows how to feign demureness when it is to her advantage. She trots, looks starry-eyed and gives lip service to her mother as a 17-year-old should. She showed complete ease on the stage.

A very pleasant surprise were the performances of Garry Garth and Caryl Greene as an eligible suitor and another deb. Until this week they had had only small parts. (Please turn to page 15)

August 31
Set As
Appeal Date

ABOUT 2,000 Pennsylvania school districts, faced with substantial cuts in state reimbursement aid as the result of upward revisions in realty assessments, have until Aug. 31 to appeal.

The State Tax Equalization Board is ready for a deluge.

Board chairman John Bevec told the Senate GOP caucus Monday that the revised market values resulted from a gradual updating during the past three years.

"We could not release the updating piecemeal, because then there certainly would have been inequities," he said, "so we waited until the job was completed." Until this year 1952 realty values were the basis for the board's reports on which the Department of Public Instruction bases its subsidy payments.

Republican senators are urging their school boards to file appeals in an effort to stave off financial hardship. Meanwhile the Senate GOP bloc is preparing legislative proposals that would offset the effect of the new board figures.

—By Bobby Westbrook

It's good to be home. No matter how much glamour, glitter and luxury you enjoy away from home, there are things you miss:

Your own bed. The mattress may be lumpy, the linen threadbare, but you sleep as you never sleep when you're away.

A refrigerator to rummage in. The food was fabulous and served with a flair, but there was no cold chicken for bed-time snack, no crackers and cheese or a bunch of grapes just to nibble on.

Time to be alone. No matter how dreary your own company may seem at times, there is a luxury about letting your muscles sag and your hair straggle and your mind go blank after a week of being alert, friendly and with high heels on.

Old friends. I'd forgotten how comfortable it is, surrounded by people you know, until Sawnee Day at Glen Brook which brought a lot of my favorite people together. It was fun to listen to their chatter and replaying the golf matches.

There was some replaying to do, too. Betty Peeney came in with 79. Vi Shaffer's 24 putts had everybody doing arithmetic. She must have one-putted 12 holes, we decided.

Unless, like Honey Merrill, she putted in from 50 yards out. That was a sensational shot by probably the prettiest golfer on the course. Although not the youngest, the juniors were being very serious about their clinic when we passed, and from a distance looked about knee-high.

That's about the height of my lawn, too, after these galavating days. It has either been too wet or I've been too busy. When I have to part the hay to find the back door maybe I'll get to it.

STROUDSBURG, PA.

"That telephone call on the air was quite a gimmick," Mr. Tischler, our new Playtex salesman remarked the other morning. "Did you really make it during the broadcast?"

"Yes," I said. "I was on the air when Helen Marshall gave me a message to telephone Bill Wells . . . and I knew there must be something big and exciting happening, or he wouldn't have asked me to call during a broadcast. Could you hear Bill's voice at all?"

"I could hear him talking to you," Mr. Tischler said, "but only a word now and then of what he said. I liked it though . . . it gave the whole thing a very personal touch."

"Next time," I decided, "I'll hold the telephone right against the mike, and maybe the entire conversation can be picked up." (I will, that is, if the telephone company has no rules about this . . . perhaps I should check.)

On second thought, I'd better check—and double check—with the person on the other end of the line. As Bill Wells said, "It's pretty difficult to guess what a person will say unless he knows the conversation is being heard." That, I suppose, is true. It must be recorded, however, that Bill was very much the gentleman . . . didn't even call me "Mrs. Baloney," as certain other parties, who shall be nameless, would have done!

I don't blame Bill for wanting to get his news to the world in a hurry, however! After all, it isn't every day that we receive a shipment of 800 bathing suits at Wyckoff's . . . and it isn't often that at this particular time of summer—right in the height of the season—ANY store sells such suits at such an unbelievably low, special price.

We have suits for all sizes too, from children to women. (The men's suits are not on sale, unfortunately, although we do have a big assortment of handsome, famous-name swim wear for the males.) Our special purchase suits come in sizes 3 to 6x . . . 7 to 14 . . . 8 to 16 (pre-teens) . . . and for the woman, in a full size range. Children's suits, values to 10.98, are priced from 2.99 to 6.99 . . . women's suits, values to 25.00—are being given away for a mere 6.99 to 12.99.

To be swimmingly beautiful and very much "in the swim" this summer, visit Wyckoff's . . . and select a truly glamorous suit that will make your figure look as slim as my budget!

Beginning Monday we will have two very interesting visitors at Wyckoff's for one week. They are Mayan Indian weavers from Guatemala, named Julia and Filomena, and Holt Wyckoff tells me they will occupy a square of space near the front of our store where they will demonstrate the weaving for which they are noted. The girls have been visiting numerous stores throughout our country, and many of the woven items will be on sale. Come in and see them . . . and hear them on our Wyckoff Shopper radio program of Monday morning . . . 9:45 over WVPO.

Speaking of weaving . . . and other crafts, reminds us of our beautiful crafts window at Wyckoff. This is our annual salute to members of the Pennsylvania Guild of Craftsman whose state fair and exhibit is now going on at State Teachers College, East Stroudsburg, and will continue through Sunday afternoon. Be sure to attend! You'll be delighted by the wares on display, and find many purchasable items.

For the second straight day Miss Moore was on the verge of defeat. She lost the first set to Mrs. Baba Lewis of Boston 3-6 and trailed 2-5 in the second set before untracking herself. Then the Bakersfield, Calif., girl ran out five straight games and breezed through the third set to win 3-6, 7-5, 6-2.

Wednesday Miss Moore lost the first set and trailed Pamela Davis 2-4 in the second before hitting stride.

Another Upset

2 Ks Lead Tigers Past Nats, 11-2

DETROIT (AP)—Al Kaline and Harvey Kuenn supported Jim Bunning's stout pitching, each collecting four safeties as the Detroit Tigers walloped Washington 11-2 before a crowd that included Ty Cobb.

Kuenn, the American League's leading batter, had a perfect day at the plate with four singles and a walk. Kaline, not far behind in the batting race, collected two doubles and a pair of singles.

Bunning limited the Senators to four hits, including Bob Allison's 26th home run that came in the ninth inning. The only other score off the lanky right hander came in the first inning when Allison singled, went to third on Harmon Killebrew's single and scored on a fly ball.

Bunning did not allow another hit until Clint Courtney led off the eighth with a single. At one stroke Bunning retired 17 batters in succession.

His teammates blasted ex-Tiger Hal Woodeshick for six scores in the first five innings and received assistance from some shoddy Washington outfield play.

Willie Jones' Grand Slam Jets Redlegs Past Braves

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Willie Jones blasted a bases-loaded home run with two out in the eighth to lift the Cincinnati Reds to a 6-2 victory Thursday night over the Milwaukee Braves.

Jones, a veteran third baseman discarded by the Philadelphia Phillies and the Cleveland Indians earlier this year, picked out a 2-2 pitch from Joey Jay and sent it high over the left field fence.

The homer was Jones' ninth of the season and the seventh grand slam hit of his career.

Erupt
The Reds, retired in easy fashion for seven innings by Jay, erupted with two out in the eighth as Frank Robinson and Jerry Lynch singled to center.

Ed Bailey then sent a soft roller just to the right of second base. Bobby Avila, the hero of Wednesday night's game with a ninth inning homer, just managed to get to the ball but was unable to ship it to second for a forceout. Avila was charged with an error and Jones followed with his game-deciding blast.

Avila's home run Wednesday night gave the Braves a 5-4 victory and broke a seven-game Milwaukee losing streak.

Jurges Slaps Curfew On Bosox

CHICAGO (AP)—Manager Billy Jurges has slapped a curfew on the Boston Red Sox players it was learned Thursday.

Jurges set the deadline for 1 a.m. or an hour and a half after the end of night games. First offenders will receive warnings but it will cost $100 for every infraction thereafter.

"There is no special reason for it," Jurges responded to a question if any nightclubbing was involved. "I just want to make sure the boys get their rest."

The FIRST winner of Pinillos' Peckness, Survivor in 1873, received a purse of $1,800. The colt which wins the 83rd running of the Peckness at the Baltimore track next May 16 is expected to get $127,500 from a gross pot of about $180,000.

In a rematch Aug. 19, He resumes training Friday and starts boxing Monday. Cuts over both eyes, which set up a 13th round technical knockout loss, have healed perfectly, Bassey said.

'Sunny Jim' Celebrates 85th Year

OCEANPORT, N.J. (AP)—Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, the spry and witty dean of American thoroughbred trainers, celebrated his 85th birthday Thursday at Monmouth Park with a luncheon, huge birthday cake and thousands of well-wishing horse racing fans.

The grand old patriarch of the turf was guest of honor at a luncheon given for the third consecutive year on his birthday.

51 Family Members
In addition to his legion of friends in racing, 51 members of the Fitzsimmons family sat at the festive board.

Sunny Jim, who has been training for almost 60 years and who has been around horses since 1885, beamed happily. He got the biggest kick out of the tribute paid by his grandson, James 3rd, who said:

"Happy birthday, grandfather, and keep all of us going."

Amory L. Haskell, president of Monmouth Park, and General Manager Edward J. Brennan presided at the luncheon. In attendance were 28 of his great-grandchildren, 17 grandchildren, five of Mrs. Fitz's sons, and his one daughter, Mrs. Edith Carr.

LL Runoffs Postponed Until Today

SHOWERS late yesterday afternoon forced postponement of the Northern District Little League All-Star playoffs at three diamonds.

Postponed until today were opening round games involving Pocono North at Pen Argyl, Pocono South at East Stroudsburg, and Slate Belt at Bangor.

The contests will be made up today at the same sites and starting at 6 p.m.

The rainouts forced LL officials to switch today's second round games to tomorrow, starting at 6 p.m. The finals in the Northern District LL runoffs will be held Monday.

Also postponed last night was the Stroudsburg Little League game involving Penn-Stroud Hotel and Stout's Glass. S-Burg LL president Jack Mullins said the game will be played today at 6 p.m.

Bisbing Sets Pace In Bike Races

GLEN BISBING and Bob Whalen won the bicycle race championships sponsored by the Stroudsburg playground yesterday.

Bisbing captured the 12-year and under boys race, besting 14 entries on a course around Stroudsburg High School, while Whalen defeated 11 entries in the 15-year and under group.

Second in the 12-year class was John Muller, followed by Mike Chaman. Halsey Melvin finished second in the 15-year old division, trailed by Doug Fugh.

In a special race, Bisbing edged out Whalen by four inches. Muller was third.

You'd think after a man has been in the coaching business as long as East Stroudsburg High's popular Jack Kist he'd take to the opening of a new football season like a grain of salt. But it isn't so. Kist is like a new-born colt, biting at the bit ready to kick off another Cavalier grid campaign.

We haven't had the chance to talk too much football with Kist as yet. But one can tell from the tone of his voice that the season can't start too soon for him.

Probably this is one of the reasons Kist does such a wonderful job with the Cavaliers year after year.

He'll be starting his 12th season this year, making him one of the veterans of high school coaching in the Lehigh Valley. We can think of only a few who have been longer at the same institution. Probably foremost in our mind is Chet Morrison, the Hackettstown grid boss, who it seems is older than Methuselah, having been at the New Jersey school more than 30 years.

Kist has a long way to go to reach Chet's age limit but we imagine Cavalier fans feel the likeable Eastburg coach has given them 30 years of service already.

Speaking of football the All-American scholastic grid stars will meet Pennsylvania's finest Aug. 1 at Hershey Stadium.

Easton High will be represented by halfback Pete Amerious who is headed for Maryland and halfback Bill Houston who is still hoping to get into Penn State.

Guess who will be there from this area. You right, a gentleman by the name of Jack Kist. Also his entire grid staff will take in the schoolboy spectacle.

Kist is from the old school, feeling you never can learn too much about the game.

Word from the State Belt has it that Bangor High will have another fine team again under Dave (Duke) Pritchard. Anchored in the line by powerful tackle Ron Mack and just-as-strong Duane LaBar, the Slaters are expected to open the door for the fleet-footed backs fruitfully this year.

Pritchard, however, has one big problem trying to fill the shoes of triple-threat star Frankie Butz. Like one veteran football observed said, "You don't replace the likes of Butz overnight."

Walt Bjorn, Stroudsburg High football coach, is concerned with line problems facing his this year. "We have two good backs in Davey O'Connor and Bill Schoonover," Bjorn remarked the other day. "But we have to find a few boys who will be able to open the holes for this pair," he noted.

Bjorn, starting his second year at the Mountaineer institution, plans the same wide-open football he introduced last year. However he expects to install different variations of the "T".

Johnny Whitehead, the ex-Stroudsburg High football coach, attended about every grid clinic around the east this summer in hopes of picking up material which will aid him in his second year at Middletown, N. Y., High.

During the last half of last year's campaign Whitehead went into a freshman and sophomore drive with hopes of preparing for the future.

He felt the Middletown eleven couldn't go anywhere with upperclassmen he had so he decided to experiment with first and second year schoolboys.

While he isn't going out on the limb, Whitehead is optimistic enough to feel that Middletown could have their best season in four years.

Now that we got rid of our football kick in 99-degree weather we wished it was fall again and were able to see the pigskin sailing around.

North Carolina's Tatum Dies Of Virus Infection

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (AP)—Jim Tatum, a big country boy who rose to the top as a college football coach, died in a hospital here Thursday night of a virus infection which struck him 10 days ago.

Tatum, University of North Carolina mentor, died at 10:40 p.m. (EST). He had gone into a coma during the afternoon and did not regain consciousness.

Tatum, former head coach at Oklahoma and Maryland, entered the hospital last Saturday. He had suffered a long period of hoarseness and respiratory trouble last summer and was warned by his doctors to slow down and cut out smoking.

His condition took a sudden turn for the worse in the afternoon. His physicians said the husky, 46-year-old coach had contracted "an overwhelming virus infection" which had infected much of his body.

Later, the hospital reported that uremic poisoning and other complications had set in and his condition had grown worse.

Tatum made his greatest mark in the football ranks while head coach at the University of Maryland. He compiled a record of 73 wins, 15 losses and 4 ties. His teams there played in the Orange, Sugar and Gator bowls and the 1953 team was voted the national champions. Tatum was named Coach of the Year that season.

He came to the University of North Carolina, his alma mater, as head coach in 1956 to rebuild that school's sagging football fortunes.

A native of McColl, S.C., Tatum graduated from the university in 1935 after starring as a tackle on three varsity teams.

Tatum's wife, ill with the same virus, was in isolation but recovering at her home on the university campus.

Sister Dies
The hefty Tatum, a native of McColl, S.C., cut short a stay in Montreal, Canada, a week ago when he was called home because of the death of a sister.

He became ill in mid-week and entered the hospital Saturday after cancelling a number of speaking engagements.

Tatum returned to North Carolina as coach in 1956 after nine successful years at the University of Maryland. He replaced George Barclay as head coach. The two had starred on Tar Heel teams in the early 1930's.

Powerful Elevens
At Maryland, Tatum built a football powerhouse that played in five bowl games. The Terps won the national championship in 1953 and Tatum was named coach of the year.

He was less successful at the helm of the Tar Heels. His 1956 team had a dismal 2-7-1 record. But the following two years the Tar Heels rang up 6-4 records. Tatum has said his team thus fall should be his strongest here.

He is married to the former Edna Sumrell, and they have two daughters, Becky and Reid, and one son, Jimmy.

Tempted Slight Favorite In Richest Fillies Race

Associated Press Sports Writer STANTON, Del. (AP)—With understandable temerity the poor souls who handicap distaff horse races have established Tempted as the favorite to win the richest race in the world for fillies and mares.

Tempted, however, won't win the 1 1/4 mile Delaware Handicap Saturday at Delaware Park if the unpredictable ladies run true to form. You see, the form in this year's quarter of a million dollar distaff has three has been for an upset.

Take the first of the big three events July 11, the Delaware Oaks, C.V. Whitney's Silver Spoon was the odds on favorite. She was whipped soundly by King Ranch's Resaca. Then, last Saturday in the New Castle, Whitney's Bug Brush was favorite. Tempted won by 2 1/4 lengths going away.

It's no wonder Trainer Henry Clark looks askance at the 5-2 odds quoted on the 4-year-old Tempted, owned by Mrs. Philip du Pont's Mooring Stable. Tempted picks up three pounds to 119 in this weight for age handicap valued in excess of $150,000. Mockey Eldon Nelson will be aboard. The winner will get $110,000.

Strong Foes
Clark's pessimism can be traced to such strong opposition in the field of 12 probable starters as J. Graham Brown's Bornstar (7-2) and Bug Brush (4-1). Also to be considered are Brookmeade Stable's Big Effort and the King Ranch entry of Dotted Line and Chistosa.

Giants Trim Cards, 5-1, Via Sanford

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Big right-hander Jack Sanford Thursday won his first game since being hurt last month as he scattered nine St. Louis hits for a 5-1 San Francisco victory.

The National League leaders scored twice in the first inning on third baseman Ken Boyer's error to give their pitcher all the bulge he needed.

St. Louis didn't score until two were out in the ninth when Wally Shannon singled home Boyer.

Sanford, who had not won since June 7, ran his record to 8-9 as he struck out four and issued one walk.

On June 11, the fireball pitcher was hit on the right hand while batting against Pittsburgh's Bob Friend and the deep bruise put him out of action. Jack then lost his first two starts on returning to the firing line.

Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell recorded his fifth loss of the season against 11 triumphs. The big left-hander had whipped the Giants here twice this season, the only Cardinal hurler to notch a 1959 victory in Seale Stadium.

St. Louis 000 000 001—1 9 3

Milwaukee, Chisox AP Flag Choices

NEW YORK (AP) — The baseball writers are doing a little second guessing themselves on the outcomes of the major league pennant races.

In a preseason Associated Press poll members of the Baseball Writers Assn. picked the New York Yankees by a wide margin to win the American League championship. They liked the Milwaukee Braves to win the National League pennant, although with less enthusiasm.

At the half-way point in the races the league standings weren't quite as expected, so The AP conducted another poll of the writers to see if they had changed their minds.

They had. Now they still favor the Braves, but by a very slim margin. But the Yankees are out, as far as the writers are concerned. Of the 72 votes cast only 11 picked the Yankees to win.

The consensus now favors the Chicago White Sox to take the flag, with Cleveland second and New York third.

Cleveland got two more first place votes than Chicago, but on the 8-7-6 point-scoring basis the White Sox had a 526-516 edge. Milwaukee got nine more first-place votes than San Francisco, but led in points by only 514-500.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 2. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Miss Greene was quite convincing as a rather forward debutant and Garth was never maudlin in his love scenes with the reluctant debutante. He was perfectly stuffy as a member of the gaud and a follower of all the debries.

Richard L. Turmull as the suitor with a gay reputation has been showing more and more each week the range of his abilities. Wednesday night as a suave English blade who is out for real love, not just social courting, he reached the same level of competence he has attained before.

Earlier this summer he was an intellectual newspaper reporter and a badgered husband with an inferiority complex.

Religion Today Women In Back Seat Of Church

By George W. Cornell
Associated Press Religion Writer
WOMEN today occupy a back seat in the running of American religious denominations.

Their roles are widely restricted. They do much of the work, but generally have little voice in policy. They're often called the "shadow church."

"By and large, women still are second - class citizens in the church," said Mrs. W. Murdoch MacLeod, executive director of the 12-million-member United Church Women.

"In most every other field, their equal rights have been recognized at least in principle. But in various instances, they're still excluded from important areas of church responsibility."

Gaining Ground
Technically, they've been gaining ground in several groups.

Yet even in cases where prohibitions against their participation in church or synagogue government have been removed, their representation often remains minimal.

Almost universally, local church boards, vestries or councils, as well as national law-making bodies, are overwhelmingly male.

In many religious groups, women specifically are barred from such governing bodies.

"There is no question about it, the church is behind the times," said Mrs. Arthur Sherman, executive director of the Episcopal Church's General Division of Women's Work.

Numerous denominations recently have revised laws to accredit women legislators. But in others it's still an issue, 40 years after the United States removed the sex bar to the franchise.

The question boiled to the surface this year in several church arenas, and in one case, a Lutheran pastor was suspended partly because he let women in his congregation vote.

The Wisconsin Lutheran Synod took the action against the Rev. Richard Buege, pastor of two churches in Arcadia and Whitehall, Wis., but both congregations voted to quit the organization and keep their pastor.

In a similar vein, the male trend in the two-million-member Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod rebuffed a proposal to change its rule denying women a vote in the congregational affairs.

The Presbyterian Church in the U.S. (Southern) also turned down an effort to admit women delegates to the church's General Assembly, its chief governing body. Women also are barred as local church officers.

They also are similarly restricted in the Reformed Church in America.

The issue is a perennial one in the Episcopal Church, whose General Convention repeatedly has refused to seat women. However, 45 of 87 Episcopal diocesan conventions now admit women, and 40 dioceses let them serve on parish vestries.

Not On Board
In the big, 10-million-member Southern Baptist Convention, women can't sit on the Board of Deacons, the local administrative unit, though women can attend mass conventions as "messengers."

The Roman Catholic Church also is ruled by a male hierarchy. Orthodox Judaism also generally bars women from local synagogue boards, and none participate in the National Conference of the Union of Orthodox Hebrew Congregations.

In most other major denominations, Methodists, American Baptists, Reformed and Conservative Judaism, United Presbyterians, Congregational Christian, Evangelical and Reformed, Disciples, United Lutherans, woman can be on local ruling units, and also be delegates to conventions.

But the proportion of them usually is scanty.

Aging Office Adopts New Proposal

A RECOMMENDATION that all county institution districts establish two advisory committees has been adopted as policy by the Office of the Aging, Department of Public Welfare.

One committee will advise on general policies of operation and the other would be a medical care committee.

The recommendations are being made as State Commissioner Elias Cohen receives reports resulting from periodic inspections by the department.

Review
The Office of the Aging reviews every facet of the operation and administration of the county homes. The commissioners in the respective counties are advised of the findings, the recommendations are made and cooperation is invited before directives are issued.

The policy committee would consist of citizens who meet periodically with the commissioners, the administrator and key staff to review policies of operation in the county institution district.

The medical care committee would be appointed to aid and advise the administrator and the medical director in the development of the medical care program for the institution.

Increase Made In Support Payments

A STROUDSBURG woman received an increase in support payments and reaffirmation of custodial rights for her son yesterday in Matrimonial Court at Bridgeton, N. J.

Mrs. Kathleen Goodall, 421 Hawthorne Terrace, was awarded $100 a month for care of her son, David, 15, by Superior Court Judge William R. J. Burton, Jr.

The order is against Edward J. Goodall, administrator of Millville, N. J., Hospital, whom Mrs. Goodall divorced in New Jersey on July 23, 1958, on grounds of extreme cruelty.

Immediate Assent

The father gave his immediate assent to the increase from a previous monthly payment of $75.

At the request of Mrs. Goodall, Judge Burton also formally ordered the father to notify David's mother in writing at least four days prior to any intended visit to the youngster here.

Mrs. Goodall assented to David remaining with his father in Millville for two more weeks and agreed he should return to Millville next Summer following the close of Stroud Union High School where David will be a freshman this year.

Mrs. Goodall complained to the Probation Department that her former husband and his present wife entered her home here in June, while she was absent, and took David to Millville where he now lives in the nurses' home of the hospital his father directs.

She said the action of her ex-husband and his present wife violated the court's custodial directive.

At the time of the divorce, Mrs. Goodall was awarded $150 monthly for the support of David and his sister. The latter has since married.
